Rethinking Crime Prevention: IcARUS at Efus' Security, Democracy, and Cities Conference in Nice

The 2021 edition of the Security, Democracy and Cities (SDC) Conference was held in Nice, France, on 20th-22nd October. It was an opportunity for the project's partners to meet on-site for the first time and continue their collective reflection on building the next steps of the project. The Conference was also a wonderful opportunity to disseminate the project's activities and innovative approach to the wider public, which was welcomed with great interest. The IcARUS partners contributed to some of the various workshops and sessions of the Conference.

Engagement and Communication: An update on the State-of-the-Art Review

One of the things that makes IcARUS distinct from other projects is the incorporation and synthesis of a large body of academic research and practitioner knowledge developed over the past 30 years in a State-of-the-Art Review.

The State-of-the-Art Review will form the foundation upon which our IcARUS partners move forward, incorporating the broad lessons learnt in developing and co-designing innovative and useful tools for municipalities to apply in a way that fits their unique needs.
