

WELCOME TO THE 6th NEWSLETTER OF ICARUS!

IcARUS partners continued the work on developing the project's tools and practices upon reaching the second half of the four-year project.

Find out more about what we've been up to with some project updates:

- The publication of a Roadmap for the improvement and definition of novel urban security tools
- The release of IcARUS Research Overview web-interactive tool
- The outcomes of the session organised by Efus at the 24-hour online conference of the Global Initiative Against Transnational Organized Crime
- The exchange with the Consultative Committee of Cities (CCC) in Emilia-Romagna Region in an interview with Gian Guido Nobili

GET TO KNOW THE ICARUS CONSULTATIVE COMMITTEE OF CITIES (CCC)

Interview with Gian Guido Nobili, Head of the Urban Security and Crime Prevention Unit of the Emilia-Romagna Region (member of the Consultative Committee of Cities in IcARUS)

We continue to get to know IcARUS Consultative Committee of Cities. (Watch the full interview with Malin Martelius (City of Malmö) at the 2021 Security, Democracy and Cities Conference here).

This time we talked with Gian Guido Nobili, Head of the Urban Security and Crime Prevention Unit of the Emilia-Romagna Region about this CCC Region exchange with the IcARUS Project.

FIND OUT MORE ABOUT WHAT WE'VE BEEN UP TO:

IcARUS project has co-produced and published a Roadmap for the improvement and definition of novel urban security tools

The Roadmap intends to provide a framework that builds and informs the subsequent IcARUS project activities, notably the design, development and implementation of the tools and practices in the six partner cities - Lisbon, Nice, Riga, Rotterdam, Stuttgart and Turin.

More broadly, the Roadmap will provide a helpful guide to security practitioners and programme designers across Europe.

Efus organised a session at the 24-hour online conference of the Global Initiative Against Transnational Organized Crime

Last October, four speakers representing the University of Leeds and the cities of Rotterdam, Amsterdam (Netherlands), and Berlin (Germany) shared their knowledge and experience of multi-agency partnerships to counter trafficking and organised crime at the local level. This was a session organised by IcARUS project coordinator, EFUS, at the 24-hour online conference of the Global Initiative Against Transnational Organized Crime.
