Preventing juvenile delinquency

THE TURIN TOOL

Sbocciamo Torino is a multi-stakeholder governance network designed to deliberate and co-produce interventions addressing juvenile delinquency issues in the city of Turin.

The Problem

In what ways might we support collaborative decision-making in producing interventions to tackle youth delinquency issues and enable evidence-based intervention?

The Sbocciamo Torino tool is a multistakeholder governance network model that provides an evidence-based approach to co-produce interventions around juvenile delinquency issues.

It involves a committee of stakeholders working together to make evidence-based intervention suggestions, aided by a digital dashboard that visualises data relevant to the prevention of juvenile delinquency.

Tool Components

01

A Committee

Comprising members from public and private institutions and organisations that work on matters related to prevention of juvenile delinquency in Turin. This committee is integrated with a project manager from the city of Turin, a sociology researcher with expertise in Juvenile delinquency and a data scientist, as supporting members.

02

A dashboard

Visualising data such as Demographics, school dropouts, surveys on youth aggression and conviction of young adult offenders and data on the previous interventions addressing youth delinquency that the stakeholders can provide to the committee.

03

A committee meeting

TO CO-PRODUCE INTERVENTIONS ON PREVENTING JUVENILE DELINQUENCY

The meeting is aimed at decision making through data and visualisations.

04

An extended committee meeting

WITH THE MUNICIPAL COUNCIL (COUNCILLORS)

For presenting and discussing the interventions for implementation.
